Hospitality skills

Fri 4/04/2008 9:35 AM

Good morning I would like to comment on the initiative to address the skills shortage in the Hospitality industry- support is being offered to people wanting to gain a full certificate qualification, but most people seeking work in Hospitality only want the essential and compulsory training in Food safety and responsible service of alcohol which are both short courses- can there be some consideration in supporting this training- ie single units rather than full certificate qualifications please

Many thanks
